Cameron Melly (22) is hugely impressive hard hitting batting all-rounder from Ireland. Melly has been part of the Irish Academy side in recent times and forced his way in the North West Warriors List A and T20 side.

A standout performer during his time at Somerset Academy, Cameron excelled with the bat, boasting an impressive average of over 50. His consistency and ability to deliver under pressure set him apart as a top-order batsman.

Cameron progressed to represent the North West Warriors, where he competed at the professional level and further developed his game. His performances earned him selection for the Ireland Academy, where he represented his country between the ages of 19 and 22, showcasing his talent on the international stage and gaining valuable experience against high-quality opposition.

Currently, Cameron plays for Cardiff MCCU, competing in the highly regarded university cricket system. This provides him with a platform to refine his skills and consistently test himself against some of the best emerging talents in the UK.

With a strong foundation built through academy, domestic, and international cricket, Cameron Melly continues to establish himself as a dedicated and versatile player, committed to excelling at every level of the game.

Having completed his studies the impressive batter is now keen to head to Melbourne for the Aussie 2025/26 season with a University mate (very good seam bowling all-rounder). The 2 lads are keen to play together and happy to source own accommodation.
