Hem Bahadur Chetri is a quality all rounder, currently making his mark in the top level of professional cricket in India.

A classy left handed top order batter and competent off spinner, his career is really starting to gather momentum and we believe he has the necessary skill set to be an excellent club cricket professional.

Representing Nagaland, Hem has already clocked in with 3 half centuries in the 7 first class games he has played so far and has a best of 90 against Manipur, which helped his team to a 147 run victory. He also has a List A best of 82* against Manipur, again helping his team to victory. He has the reputation of someone who 'does it when it matters' and it is no surprise to those who have observed his career closely that he is now established at the top level after years of fighting for opportunities and performing at state level. The competitive landscape of Indian cricket and the quality of players around the country means opportunities are hard earned, and Hem has certainly showed great character to reach this age of his career.

Hem comes recommended by several CricX clients as someone with the quality, and personality to be an excellent overseas pro. He would add lots of runs at the top of the order and is also a genuine frontline bowling option with his off spin, which has been utilised at professional level (best of 3/29). We recommend him highly for any club in 2025.
