Jeremiah Louis is a quick bowling all-rounder from St. Kitts who plays domestic cricket for the Leeward Islands.

Since his debut during the 2014/15 season, he has become a key figure in his side, particularly in red-ball cricket taking 151 wickets at 25.43 alongside 1,581 runs at 23.25 in 57 first-class matches.

The paceman, who has also featured for St Kitts and Nevis Patriots in the Caribbean Premier League (2016-22), really started to hit his straps during the 2016/17 season, taking best figures of 4-4 amongst 17 wickets at 22.47 in the WICB Regional 4-Day Tournament.

The following season, he dominated the first-class competition, finishing 4th on the wicket-charts (40 wickets at 23.45), and 2nd leading wicket (behind Keemo Paul), to propel him to Windies A selection. He would go on to play 2 first-class matches against the touring England Lions in February 2018.

Surprisingly, Louis suffered a lean 2018/19 campaign but was back amongst the wickets during the 2019/20 WICB Regional Tournament, where he produced averages of 28.40, and 30, with ball and bat, respectively. He would then bag another 12 wickets at 18.41 on the resumption of first-class cricket in 2022, to earn a Windies A spot on their tour to Bangladesh (Aug 2022), before backing up with another 30 wickets at 19.90 to finish top of the seam bowling charts in the WICB Four Day Competition in 2023/24.

Louis, whilst known for his bowling, is also a hard-hitting batter in the lower-middle order. Over the past two domestic seasons he has evidenced his all-round quality hitting 197 runs at 28.14 (2022/23), and 238 runs at 21.63 (2023/24), and now boasts 4 half centuries in first-class cricket to his name.

The talented bowling all-rounder is quite the prospect and last season enjoyed his first stint in the UK playing for Ashington Cricket Club. Despite a minor injury, he excelled with bat and ball (557 runs at 32.76 and 33 wickets at 15.91), and he has subsequently re-signed for a second NEPL stint in 2024.
