Muhammad Farooq is an exciting leg spinner, currently playing for the UAE national team.

Recommended by fellow CricX client CP Rizwan, Muhammad is an emerging wrist spinner who has started to earn respect on the international stage. He has established himself at international level through sheer drive and work ethic. At the time of writing he has featured in x2 ODIs (against Namibia and Oman respectively) and x8 T20 international games. As we all know, wrist spinners are highly sort after in the games shorter formats and with his control and ability to give the ball a real rip, Muhammad is starting to come to the fore.

Muhammad is also a more than useful batter who can put bat to ball and potentially win games of cricket at club level. He is keen to work on this aspect of his game throughout his overseas stint. He is now keen to showcase his talents globally and is openly seeking opportunities around the world. He would therefore be open to a season as an overseas professional in Europe with a view to continuing he development while adding significant value to his club both on and off the pitch.

Muhammad is keen to use his experience of international cricket to help develop players and also work on his own game whilst overseas. He could be quite the signing for 2025.
